The Sydney Theatre Company came to Moruya High School to perform ‘Burnt’, a play about rural Australians on Monday 15th June. Students from Yr’s 8 to 10 and Mrs Anderson attended the superb performance. The theatre company wrote the play with the help of rural Australian school students. The aim of the play was to educate students on the hardships that rural Australians go through during the drought and the current global recession issues.

It was a great performance and they succeeded in showing the students about rural life. After the performance the theatre company conducted a workshop for drama students to help them with their acting skills.
